A JUDICIAL INQUIRY.

Alderman MacDonald proposed that a judge of the Supreme Court shall be asked to investigate the exchange of property between the city and the government lands in connection with the straightening of Elizabeth street. The transaction in question was made the subject of some remarks in council which led to the appointment of a committee to look into it. This committee, including the alderman whose words led to its appointment, reported that there were no improprieties in connection with the matter and explicitly declared that they did not deem a judicial investigation of the affair to be necessary.

Unfortunately, the finding of the committee did not end the kind of talk which brought about its appointment, and things have been said in council since—especially with regard to the transaction—which either could not have been said or should have proven to be true. Alderman MacDonald's purpose, apparently, is to put an end to this, by having all and sundry tell what they know of the transaction to a judicial investigator. It should not be necessary to put the city to the expense and disturbance of a judicial investigation of a matter once dealt with in so cumbersome a manner. That, however, seems to be the only way of stopping the few of insinuation.

THE DISAGREEING DOCTORS.

It is not that whatever the two men farmed in each other's way want for advice. For a year past the gentlemen who attended portfolios at Ottawa by denying him access to the muckracks of the United States have been consulting him for the injury by liberal donations from their stock of agricultural lore. Thus while the Minister of Agriculture has deemed it his chief business in life to educate the farmer in the common and vulgar business of wheat-growing and into the more specialized branches of the profession, his colleagues have answered the wheat-grower with admonitions to build granaries in which to store his wheat until the railroads get ready to haul it. Now however, the two sets of our banking institutions come down the scene and say that dramatic will not do. If the farmer had a granary, they argue, he would put the wheat in it, and "stand off," the local merchant and the banker until he got ready to sell; whereas now he sells as soon as possible, and at any price he can get, paying the grain dealer. Only, if the farmer is not satisfied by the distinguished solicitude of which he is the subject, he ought to be. There is room for a suspicion, however, that if the doctors would agree more in their prescriptions, they would more impress the patient with faith in their competence.

FIRST THINGS FIRST.

The public works committee of the city council turned down a request to extend the city's water and power systems to an industrial establishment located outside the city. The committee might with advantage have laid down the general rule that they will deal similarly with similar institutions. Edmonton is geographically speaking a city of very generous proportions—quite generous enough, most will agree. To extend the public services throughout the area now within the city limits will take an enormous amount of money and a long period of time. The fact is, though the city-site is by no means thickly populated, the city is behind rather than ahead of the work of supplying its people with water and light and telephone and car services. And it appears likely that for some years to come the city will have all it can handle in the way of public works to accommodate the new dwellers within its borders. As it is the land inside the city that is mortgaged to create these service systems, and the people inside the city who must bear the responsibility and risk of operating them, the primary duty of the council and commissioners is to make the advantages of these services available to the people in all parts of the city before undertaking to accommodate outlying communities or prospective communities.

There has been some talk of late of extending the street railway system to St. Albert. The object of the proposal may be to secure greater extension when the building application is made to the Provincial Legislature for the extension of the city's power to build lines outside the city. This power should be of value to the city in dealing with rural electric railway companies when these undertake construction in this part of the world and come to the city for traffic arrangements. In this case, at least, the proposal rests upon a different basis than usual, and might well be made the exception to the rule. Another exception might very well be made if by building a line to the coal mining district east of the city, some of this traffic could be secured for the system. But, except in cases such as these, the rule should apply to the street railway, and to other utilities that the city's first duty is to provide accommodation for its citizens. It is the man inside the city who has to make good if the street railway loses money, and who is entitled first of all to good service from it. And experience here and elsewhere has demonstrated that, if the street railway is built, there will be little danger of the street railway coming out wrong financially. As with the other utilities, the city is rather behind than ahead of the requirements in the matter of street railway extension. The first object should be to catch up the arrears already due, and then to insure a steady growth of population within the city limits; and to build up a tolerably complete city system, capable of economic operation. When that is done will be time enough to consider whether Edmonton should find the money and assume the risk of equipping the outlying districts with electric lines.

ENGLAND GROWS MOST OF ITS OWN GRAINS

Report of British Department of Agriculture Shows that Both England and India's Food Supply is Grown on the Island-India Supplies Most Imported Wheat

London, Oct. 10.—R. H. Rew, C. H. Assistant secretary to the board of agriculture, has issued in the agricultural statistics of the board of agriculture a report on the food supply of the home country.

Nothing perhaps will more surprise the average Englishman than this report, which shows that he is convinced that the great mass of the nation's food is imported. It is a perfectly common estimate to hear the Englishman say that 90 per cent of the food consumed in England is imported. Mr. Rew's report shows that in reality it is upwards of one-half and that the value of the home grown produce is less than one-tenth of the value of the imports. This is a most remarkable statement to the ordinary man in connection with the question of self-sufficiency.

The chief sources of wheat imports with which the Englishman is familiar are the United States, Canada, Australia, and India. The latter is a close second, while next to none in importance comes the United States.

Canada supplies the bulk of the imports from the United States.

India, hardly ahead of the United States with Canada third and Australia fourth, is the chief source of wheat imports to the United Kingdom.

India is the most remarkable figure about these figures is that the home-grown supply has risen slightly on an average over the last ten years, and that while there has been a small increase in the Indian and Australian imports, there has been a large increase in the Indian and Australian imports. There has been a large increase in the imports of the United States, the actual quantity being as follows:

Cereals—
United Kingdom 1,911 3,007 11
Australia 26,000 27,200 2

DUKE OF CORNAUPT VISITS LETHBRIDGE

Governor-General Receives Enthusiastic Welcome in Lethbridge

Princess Sitton with Party.

Lethbridge, Oct. 10.—Yesterday morning, when the Governor-General's train arrived here last evening, making no stops on the way, the royal party was received at the station by the mayor of Lethbridge and the royal party was driven to the armistice here. The Royal Highnesses were taken in a carriage on a drive through the city to the residence of the Duke of Connaught, which forms the centre of the city. The streets through which the procession passed were lined with thousands of people, among the many remarkable demonstrations of enthusiasm.

After the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia have been received at the different social visits of the day, the royal party extended their tour, this evening's demonstration by the people of the city is to be characterized as the most brilliant and the least remarkable for its enthusiasm.

In reply to the civilities addressed to him by Gov. M. Hutch, the Duke spoke briefly.

An address from the Lethbridge

Chamber of Commerce, by the military organization, T. W. Clark, and His Royal Highness replied in fitting terms.

Application Made to J. P. Morgan & Co. for Loan for the Balkan War.

MONTENEGRO STILL ALONE IN THE FIELD

None of Other Three Nations Has Declared War—Greece Hoping For Peace.

New York, Oct. 10.—A decision has been made that the Turkish Government will apply to J. P. Morgan & Co. for a loan of $50,000,000 to finance the Balkan war. Should the application be granted, it may lead to international complications.

Athens Over King's Speech. Athens, Oct. 10.—Great enthusiasm has been manifested in Greece by a speech made by King George to several thousand people, who had assembled in the Royal Palace. The King is to return to the Capital this night. His Majesty said: "I am convinced that the Balkan people, whose independence and patriotic aspirations I endeavored to arouse during my long reign, will find their duty, their strength, and their worthiness to defend the Hellenic people especially in the serious times through which we are passing. In this hour of trial, the Government, which has given so many proofs of its patriotism."

At the opening of the session a great shout of "Long live the King; long live Greece; hurrah for war," was raised by the gathering, a sound which was repeated from the balconies of the Holy Synod and a number of diplomatic delegations of patriots. After the speech, a band played the national hymn. A procession then was formed which marched through the streets.

Albanian Villages in Flames. Vienna, Oct. 10.—Many Albanian villages to the north of the Bujan river were set on fire and many houses were demolished. Many fugitives, including some wounded, have arrived at Shkodra. Some refugees fled to the frontier posts at Shkodra, which were held by Montenegrins.

Austro-Hungarian Interference. Vienna, Oct. 10.—More energetic intervention by the Powers, in order to prevent the outbreak of hostilities between the Balkans and Serbia, and to bring about a cessation of the war with Montenegro, is said to be imminent. Austria and Hungary are reported to have exchanged telegrams between the Turkish and Bulgarian fronts, and the former, through the agents on the Austro-Bulgarian frontier at Tymish and Klessar.

Athens. Eleftheria, Oct. 10.—The Greek premier, Eleftherios Venizelos, still hopes for a peaceable solution, but when he had gathered outside his residence late last night, he said: "I still hope that peace can be restored, but we do not desire to make conquests and what we ask for also corresponds to the rights of the smaller states, and represents the just and independent condition for the peaceful co-existence of the Balkan peoples and the Greeks."

The crowd greeted the premier with a roar of "Long live the King." A crowd of 1,000 persons, including M. Venizelos' repeated word for word that which he had already said.

EUBRO ON THRESHOLD OF BIG CONFLAGRATION

London, Oct. 10.—The Daily Mail's special correspondent in Vienna telegraphed:

"The Balkans stand on the threshold of a general conflagration in the Balkans, on the one hand, and on the other, the half-way house between Europe and the Near East, is all arrayed in view of the all too imperfect accord at present existing."

"From a source in the closest touch with the Balkan states, comes the ready-made information which I transmit. Fully conscious of its gravity."

"The Balkans, so far as the action of Montenegro in breaking diplomatic relations with Turkey and declaring war was a hot足以 express the intense interest of King Nicholas. It was the first move in a most carefully pre-considered plan, established in secret, and involving Europe. Tomorrow (Thursday) will witness the final act."

Montenegro to Strike First.

"While the great powers hold critical discussions, and Britain objects to the intervention proposed of the Balkans, the Balkans themselves, that their intervention became practically useless, by their presence abroad completely in the Balkans, and by their occupying their territories, and thus becoming a burden to the provisions of a secret agreement."

"In the opinion of the Balkans, the intervention of the great powers, which was to be delayed, was to be delayed no longer, and the Balkans were weak on the Montenegrin frontier."

"But they have in the plan will be carried out, and the Balkans, by a concerted action by Bulgaria and Serbia, will be able to force the intervention of the great powers, which may already, this afternoon, have decided to support the Balkans."

"The rupture of diplomatic negotiations will be followed by a military attack, which Nicholas anticipated events a day or two ago, but it was not until the news came that the Balkans were to strike first, that the information of the Balkans were shown to be true, and that the Balkans were weak on the Montenegrin frontier."

Bulgaria to Strike First.

answer of the Balkans to the representations of Austria and Russia will take place in a few days. They will be followed during the past few days their relations with Turkey have become so bad that they cannot be maintained any longer. The Balkans have great power and will add that the note of the powers does not contain any guarantees and that the Balkans will continue the execution of the reform in the Turkish Republic.

Great Troubles.

"The great powers have been very anxious over a possible war between the Balkans and Turkey ever since a date. While European diplomacy was working uniformly to avert the Balkan war, the moment, events in the Balkans have come to a head. The King of Montenegro will have a hearty laugh at his head-quarters when he reads the ingenious disqualification of the Balkans, which he has given him. He reads, 'The Balkans have done all the alleged duty to steal the Balkans' in the King of Serbia."

BALKAN ALLIES TO

HAVE WIDE FRONT

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—The Balkan allies are being hurried to the front on the story that Montenegro's initiation in declaring war means a declaration of war on Turkey. It is anticipated, however, that the Balkan states are not committed to war and that the action of Montenegro will have a heavy toll for Turkey and still more severe fight.

If this is true, the Ottoman empire will not go so far as Turkey is concerned, although it may accelerate and stiffen the resistance. The Balkan allies, however, will also regard the war as begun and suppose that Montenegro, which has been a strong ally of Turkey, will help Serbia and Servia carry out a determined

To Force Wide Front.

It is plain that the allies mean to force Turkey to spread its forces over a wide front, and the much more open air than the thin line of the Turkish lines has been accomplished. This is doubtless good strategy, but it is also a dangerous policy, for a small army, dangerously at any point since the number of reserves is great, can be easily beaten.

This is the reason the Ottoman empire will not go so far as Turkey is concerned, although it may accelerate and stiffen the resistance. The Balkan allies, however, will also regard the war as begun and suppose that Montenegro, which has been a strong ally of Turkey, will help Serbia and Servia carry out a determined Sofia, Oct. 10.—The complaint of the Turkish foreign minister that the Balkan alliance has been formed to assist the Balkans in their war against Turkey has been answered by the Foreign Office.

Public Opinion Disappears.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 10.—Russian public opinion is rapidly disappearing the collectives intervention of Russia and Turkey in the Balkans. The formal declaration of war Montenegro is simply following the precedents set by Japan and Italy, which, with Russia, and more recently by Italy.

The Bulgarian cabinet, however willing, cannot prevent events from taking a turn that no one could have foreseen.

Bulgaria is now assured that no further intervention will take place, and the Balkan government will not allow me to speak, stop the war.
